Over the course of several months, the ACLU sent records requests to all 64 counties and the City of Aurora to compile a recent snapshot of county jail capacities and jail populations.

This table summarizes capacities and populations reported as of November 27, 2017.

Compared against US Bureau of Justice statistics from end-of-year 2015, Colorado's statewide population has increased by over 1,600 individuals in less than 2 years.

By our projections, if the current rate of growth continues, the ACLU predicts that Colorado's jail population will exceed 16,000 individuals by 2025, and will exceed 17,500 individuals by 2030.
