A "yes" vote on Amendment C allows nonprofit organizations operating in Colorado for three years to apply for a bingo-raffle license, permits these games to be conducted by workers who are not members of the organization, and allows workers to receive compensation.

A "no" vote on Amendment C maintains the current requirements that nonprofit organizations must operate in Colorado for five years prior to applying for a bingoraffle license, and that workers must be unpaid volunteers who are members of the nonprofit organization.

The Colorado Constitution currently prohibits bingo-raffle workers from receiving any compensation and prohibits anyone who is not a member of the nonprofit from participating in the management or operation of a game. Amendment C makes the following changes to these provisions. The measure:

- decreases the number of years that a nonprofit organization must exist to apply for a bingo-raffle license from five to three and permits the legislature to further modify this requirement after January 1, 2024;
- eliminates the requirement that bingo-raffle workers be members of the nonprofit organization; and
- permits workers to receive compensation, such as meals or payment, up to the minimum wage.

What types of charitable gaming are currently allowed in Colorado?

In 1958, the Colorado Constitution was amended to permit the operation of games of chance, such as bingo and raffles, by certain nonprofit organizations. Typical games of chance include:

- bingo, in which each player has at least one card with a grid of letters and numbers and marks off the letter and number combinations called by the bingo caller until one of the players completes the designated winning pattern; and
- raffles, which are tickets that have a unique number or other identifier randomly drawn to reveal the prize winner. Pull-tabs and pickles are considered raffles.
- The proceeds of any game must be exclusively devoted to the purposes of the nonprofit organization conducting the bingo or raffle.

What organizations can currently conduct bingo and raffle games?

Only nonprofit organizations that have operated continuously in Colorado for five or more years can be licensed to conduct bingo or raffle games. The following types of nonprofit organizations can apply for a license: chartered branches, lodges, and chapters of national or state organizations; religious, charitable, labor, fraternal, educational, voluntary firefighters', or veterans' organizations; political parties; and the Colorado State Fair Authority.

1) Bingo-raffle games are an opportunity for nonprofit organizations to raise funds for their programs. Allowing nonprofit organizations to compensate workers reduces the burden on nonprofits to provide volunteers to operate the games. Expanding licenses to newer nonprofit organizations removes a barrier and provides them with additional fundraising opportunities. By increasing access to bingo-raffle fundraising, this measure may help increase funding for nonprofit organizations.

Argument Against Amendment C

1) Professionalizing bingo-raffle operations undermines their charitable fundraising purpose. Paying workers increases overhead to operate games, potentially reducing the amount of money nonprofit organizations are able to raise and dedicate to their core mission. By removing the requirement that workers be volunteers and expanding the number of nonprofits that participate, bingo-raffle games become more like for-profit gambling than charitable fundraising.

Estimate of Fiscal Impact for Amendment C

State revenue. Beginning in state budget year 2020-21, Amendment C will increase state revenue by about $5,000 per year as a result of additional application and renewal fees for bingo-raffle licenses, based on an assumption of approximately 50 new applicants paying the current fee of $100.

State spending. Amendment C increases state spending by about $83,000 in state budget year 2020-21, and by about $37,500 per state budget year in future years. This spending is required to process additional bingo-raffle licenses, conduct additional compliance investigations, and make changes to the computer system and reporting tools used for bingo-raffle licensing.
